A National Government Promised

BY OUR POLITICAL CORRESPONDENT.

WITH a view to ascertaining, beyond any doubt, what the attitude of the Fine Gael Party is to the formation of a National Government, I put the question to General Mulcahy, Chief Whip of the Party, at Leinster House last night. His reply was prompt and explicit.

"I can tell you quite definitely," he said, "that the Fine Gael Party stands unequivocally for the establishment of a National Government. The country lives in circumstances which constitute an increasing threat to its economic, political, and even its spiritual life.

"For this reason it would be a disaster of incalculable magnitude if Party Government should continue, particularly if the basis of such Party Government should be the division of personnel arising solely out of the unfortunate events of 1922, which is the only type of Government Mr. de Valera offers."

DAIL QUESTION

At the conclusion of question time in the Dail yesterday, Alderman Byrne asked the Tanaiste, Mr. O'Kelly, if he would say if it were possible for the House to get an opportunity in Government time to discuss the motion in his own name and those of Deputies Cole and Myles, asking for a National Government in the best interests of the country.

Mr. O'Kelly—I think the deputy might well leave that to the people.

Alderman Byrne—Would the Minister not give us a day to see what deputies in the House favour a National Government?

There was no further answer.

CHALLENGE IN DAIL ACCEPTED

When Mr. O'Kelly, speaking yesterday in the Dail on the Finance Bill, 1943 (second reading), said that Opposition Deputies, like Deputy Hughes, had done their damndest to discourage the food producing policies, Mr. Hughes interjected: "That's a damned lie. Don't behave like a fool. You don't know what you are talking about."

Mr. O'Kelly—If Deputy Hughes had his way, we would be twice as short in regard to wheat and other foodstuffs.

Mr. Hughes—I challenge the Minister to quote any statements of mine that support his allegations. I take very strong exception to the Minister misrepresenting me in this House.

Mr. O'Kelly—I will meet the Deputy down in Carlow any time he likes and have the matter out with him.

Mr. Hughes—I accept the challenge. It certainly should be very interesting.

Mr. O'Kelly—There is nothing better I would ask. It would get the Deputy away from the cow's tail for one thing. I do not object to the dung on his boots—that is natural; but I object to the dung on his mouth so often.

Unemployment Benefit in Eire

Speaking yesterday in the Dail on the Unemployment Insurance Bill, 1943, which was given its second reading, Mr. Lemass, Minister for Industry and Commerce, said that the Bill was the outcome of talks with the Trades Unions. He could not accept Alderman Byrne's suggestion that it should be extended so that it should go beyond its present scope, which was to allow persons returning to the country to draw benefits in respect of their previous contributions to the Irish fund.

CONVOY'S BATTLE

A BRITISH official communiqué issued in London last night told the story of a fight between a westbound Atlantic convoy and what is described as a powerful force of U-boats. The fight lasted for eight days and nights before the attackers withdrew, after suffering losses.

The communiqué stated:—

"In the last days of April a pack of some eight U-boats were concentrated on this convoy. A series of attacks were made, the majority of which were successfully driven off. On May 1 it started to blow a gale, and this weather lasted for three days. As the weather moderated further U-boats were concentrated, and during May 4, 5 and 6 it is estimated that our escorts were in action with a pack of some twenty-five U-boats.

DAY AND NIGHT

"The enemy pressed home his assaults by day and by night in a series of some thirty attacks, and the escorts, in weather which was too heavy for complete air cover, attacked the U-boats with determination and success. Two U-boats were rammed, one by the destroyer H.M.S. Oribi (Lieutenant-Commander J. C. A. Ingram, R.N.), and the other by the corvette H.M.S. Sunflower (Lieutenant-Commander J. Plomer, R.C.N.V.R.). Another corvette, H.M.S. Snowflake (Lieutenant H. G. Chesterman, R.N.R.), attacked and destroyed a third submarine with depth charges. The fourth U-boat was sunk by the destroyer Vidette (Lieutenant R. Hart, D.S.C., R.N.) with depth charges. Aircraft of the Royal Canadian Air Force joined in the battle and carried out many attacks on the U-boats, very probably destroying one and possibly destroying another. The convoy proceeded on its way without further incident.

"First reports state that in the course of these actions four U-boats are known to be destroyed, four were very probably destroyed, and two others probably destroyed. The convoy suffered some damage, but the majority of the merchantmen reached port in safety."

Theatre Prices May Rise

That he was not prepared to concede the point made by Mr. Robbins, of the Transport Union, that prices of admission would remain as they were, was stated by Mr. John O'Brien, General Secretary of the Federated Union of Employers, at yesterday's sitting in Dublin of the Wages Advisory Tribunal. The Tribunal was hearing the employers' case regarding the application by the Transport Workers' Union for a bonus and Standard Wage Orders for employés in the cinema and theatre industry in Dublin, city and county, and the urban district of Bray. The application was for an 8s. bonus for males, and 4s. for females. Already, bonuses of 9s. and 4s 6d. respectively had been granted.

Mr. O'Brien contended that an increase in admission prices would fail to increase receipts, if it did not involve a decrease.

STATISTICS MAY BE USED IN ELECTION

THE resumed debate in the Dail on the second reading of the Finance Bill, 1943, yesterday suggested that the Opposition leaders are going to fight the general election on material gathered from the Statistical Abstract.

Led off by Mr. Mulcahy, and followed by Mr. Davin and Mr. Cosgrave, the Chamber resounded for the greater part of the debate with figures about unemployment, about the insured population and about taxation related to various years and various periods.

Mr. MULCAHY stressed chiefly the annual increase of 11,400 in the numbers in employment between 1926 and 1931.

Mr. DAVIN (Labour) swelled the flow of statistics by telling, among other things, that taxation had risen from £2 3s. per head in 1913 to £12 per head in the last Budget.

In the reply, made before the bill passed its second reading, the MINISTER FOR FINANCE, Mr. O'Kelly, said that the Budget, on the whole, had been well received. It was agreed that the financial position was sound. He also agreed that they could not go on borrowing for ever, but when it was going to end he did not know. He feared that unemployment would become even greater. The Government was now being blamed for food shortages by deputies who had done their best to discourage food production policies.

'Bus Services "Normal"

OMNIBUS services in Eire—which have suffered withdrawals and curtailments since May 3—are now back to normal.

The Great Southern Railways Company announced yesterday that as from to-morrow their omnibus services will operate as before the cuts.

Over 200 Escaped Donegal Tragedy

Hundreds of people had a narrow escape from death in the Annagry mine disaster, as prior to the explosion the mine attracted much attention, and only half an hour before the eighteen men were killed over 200 others had gathered near it, but dispersed on being warned.

One of the victims, sixteen years old Manus O'Donnell, was the sole support of his widowed mother and ten children. The inquest on the eighteenth victim—John Joseph Carson (16), Braide—was held at Letterkenny yesterday and adjourned following evidence of identification. The other seventeen coffins were removed yesterday to churches at Kilcasslagh and Annagry for interment to-day.

On Tuesday night and yesterday morning pathetic scenes were witnessed as constant vigil beside the coffins was maintained by weeping mothers and sisters of victims in Mullaghduff dance hall, where the seventeen plain deal coffins lay.

Public opinion throughout Donegal is mystified as to the inquest adjournment pending an inquiry into the disaster. It may be that the victims' relatives consider that the authorities were lax in not having the mine watched as it neared the coast and in failure to cordon off the danger area. The inquiry will probably open in two weeks.

Confidence in Northern Government

A motion of confidence in the new Northern Ireland Government was carried in the House of Commons, Belfast, yesterday, without a division.

An amendment moved by Mr. J. Beattie (Soc.) calling for a general election was defeated by 27 votes to 3.

The principal speech for the Government was made by Mr. Lowry, K.C., Minister for Home Affairs, who answered statements which he alleged were made by Mr. Beattie and broadcast by Dr. Goebbels.

"I do not predict a brilliant future for him if he goes on grossly defaming his own country across the water," said Mr. Lowry.

Mr. Beattie asked the Speaker if it was in order for Mr. Lowry to quote statements which never were made by him, and the Speaker said that it was open to Mr. Beattie to correct the statements if they were wrong.

Mr. Beattie recalled that seventeen years ago Lord Craigavon had used the phrase, "A Protestant Parliament for a Protestant people," and ten years ago the present Premier had repeated it. It was an outworn and discredited course to take a sentence out of a speech, divorce it entirely from its context, and ignore the time, place and circumstances and subsequent explanation.

Russian Attacks On Kuban Line

SOVIET shock troops have begun to infiltrate through holes made in the main lines of the German defence system engirdling Novorossisk, says Reuter's Special Correspondent in Moscow. The hardest part of the Kuban campaign has now been reached, as the German defences are proving a tough nut to crack. Soviet guns are steadily making breaches in the elaborate network of defence works.

The Soviet offensive against German communications reached still greater proportions on Tuesday. Bryansk was raided for the tenth successive day, while Orel and its railways were again pounded. Russian bombers are also attacking roads around Orel, which forms the Germans' southern salient against Moscow. Rail communications leading to the Donets line, including the bases behind the Dnieper river, are being heavily punished.

The German News Agency reported last night that the Russians launched a concentrated attack against advanced German positions on the central Donets, in the area of Slavyansk.

The Agency added: "A temporary breach in the German lines was cleared in an immediate counter-thrust."—(Reuter.)

CAPTURE OF GENERAL VON ARNIM

150,000 Axis Prisoners Taken in a Week

RESISTANCE NOW CEASED, EXCEPT FOR ISOLATED POCKETS

THE following special communiqué was issued last night from Allied Headquarters, North Africa:—

"Organised resistance, except by isolated pockets, has ceased. General von Arnim, Commander-in-Chief of the Axis forces in Tunisia, has been captured.

"It is estimated that the total number of prisoners captured since May 5 is 150,000. Vast quantities of guns and war material of all kinds have been captured, including guns and aircraft in a serviceable condition."

General von Arnim was captured by British forces at Cape Bon yesterday afternoon. Reuter states that he was unable to leave Tunisia because of the sea and air blockade.

Eleven Generals Taken

Reuter's Correspondent at Allied H.Q. adds that with General von Arnim are eleven Axis Generals who have been captured. They include Major-General Count von Stonech, commanding the 90th Light Infantry Division, and Major-General Roich, commanding the 10th Panzer Division.

In the Zaghouan area yesterday more than 25,000 prisoners and their entire material fell into French hands.

"End of Africa War"

According to Reuter, last night's special Allied communiqué means that the war in Africa has now ended.

First indication of the final collapse, it was added, was contained in an earlier French High Command report, which said that more than 25,000 German and Italian troops, fighting between Zaghouan and Zaouaa, had unconditionally surrendered.

Reuter's Special Correspondent with the American Forces in Tunisia, in a cable received last night, stated that final German resistance was crushed by American tanks, which overwhelmed the Germans so quickly in Northern Tunisia that they made impossible any methodical destruction of equipment and stores.

Reuter's Special Correspondent cabled early to-day from Allied Headquarters that the Axis armed resistance ended officially at 8.15 o'clock last night.

General von Arnim, who is 54, was in command of the German forces in Northern Tunisia, while Marshal Rommel was fighting against the Eighth Army. He commanded the "Hairpin" Panzer Division at the start of the Russian campaign, and was appointed C.-in-C. in Tunisia in place of General Nehring in January.

According to some reports, he personally conducted the Mareth Line battle. He was promoted to the rank of Colonel-General on January 1st, 1942.

General von Arnim served in an infantry regiment during the Great War, and was an officer in the Army of 100,000 men left to Germany by the Treaty of Versailles, says Reuter's Military Correspondent.

SIMILARITIES

In many ways his career has shown a striking similarity with that of Field-Marshal Paulus, captured by the Russians at Stalingrad. Paulus, too, started in the infantry, and, like Arnim, was promoted to the command of a Panzer Division on the Russian front.

Both received the Ritter Kreuz Cross of Knighthood at the same time, and both were promoted generals at the beginning of 1942. Both received another step upwards at the beginning of this year to the rank of general oberst, which is practically the rank of deputy-marshal.

General von Arnim was sent to Tunisia about the time Field-Marshal Paulus returned to Stalingrad.

Wilhelmstrasse spokesmen yesterday told neutral correspondents in Berlin that General von Arnim would probably finish his military career in North Africa. German generals, they added, would have to share the captivity of their men when all ammunition was exhausted.

General von Arnim was captured by British armoured units in the clean-up of the Cape Bon Peninsula. He was in camp with most of his staff in an inland area of the Peninsula when he was captured.

It is two years, eleven months and twenty-six days since the Africa war began.

The besieged Axis forces, cut off from any chance of escape by sea or air, have been in a hopeless position for three days. Any attempt to hold out in the mountains was ruined when British armour broke through the centre of the German front, dashed round Cape Bon, and then moved south to close the circle of tanks, guns and infantry round the Germans in the south.

Axis Bombers' Heavy Toll

Raiders dropped bombs on a coast town in East Anglia last night. About a dozen raiders made the attack at roof-level, causing casualties which are feared to be heavy. Bombs were dropped over a scattered area, and the raiders cannon-shelled the streets, causing further casualties.

CLEARING UP FIELD OF BATTLE

British and French forces are now clearing up the battlefield in the Cape Bon Peninsula, and in the mountains north of Enfidaville, after the cessation of all organised resistance. They are taking charge of vast quantities of war material.

General von Arnim's 90th Light Division, true to tradition, fought to the last in the mountains. It was opposed by its old foe of Sidi Rezegh, the 2nd New Zealand Division, commanded by General Freyberg, who offered the Germans unconditional surrender terms yesterday morning.

The answer of Major-General Count von Sponech was that he and his men would fight until the last bullet before they gave in. The battle went on, but the terms were later accepted.

Since the North African campaign began, from the first clash between British and Italian forces, 400,000 Axis prisoners have been taken, and 37 Axis divisions—11 German and 26 Italian—have been defeated, says Reuter.

Eire's Part in Feeding Europe

The problem of food supplies was going to become more alarming, said Senator P. F. Baxter yesterday, when moving that the Government should keep in close touch with Governments and organisations abroad engaged on schemes of post-war economic recovery to ensure that plans may be made for such an increase in agricultural production as will enable Eire to make the largest possible contribution to the re-establishment of normal conditions in Europe after the war.

The motion was seconded by Senator The MacGillycuddy of the Reeks, and adjourned until to-day.

More Cigarettes Soon

Two million more American cigarettes will be on sale in Eire shortly. Half of the consignment will be "Chelsea" and "Domino" brands. The remainder of the cigarettes will be "Yorktown." The Irish Times learns that the ration of ordinary brands to dealers for April and May has been increased by 10 per cent., only one manufacturer not taking part in the general increase.

Appointments For Oireachtas Members and Ex-Members

IN reply to a question addressed some time ago to the Minister for Finance Mr. W. Davin, T.D., concerning appointments by the present Government given to members and ex-members of the Oireachtas since 1932, Mr. Sean T. O'Kelly has sent Mr. Davin a detailed reply setting out the names of the persons appointed to public or semi-public positions carrying remuneration or allowances, the nature of the position with the remuneration or allowance in each case. The list includes the following:

Denis Allen, T.D., £317 from April, 1933, to September, 1933, as member of the Sweepstakes Committees of reference, and £600 per annum as member of the Hospitals Commission from September, 1933, to September, 1937.

Senator Professor E. H. Alton, Provost of Trinity College since May, 1942. Salary not stated.

R. C. Barton, £300 per annum, Director Agricultural credit Corporation, December, 1932, to December, 1933; £800 a year, plus £200 per year travelling expenses, as Chairman Agricultural Credit Corporation since December, 1933; still serving. As Chairman of the Turf Development Board from July, 1934, to October, 1936 (no remuneration), since then £150 a year inclusive; still serving.

Donal O Buachalla, £35 per month, temporary inspector of Gaeltacht Services, May, 1932, to October, 1932.

James Colbert, £500 a year, inclusive, from August, 1934, to December, 1940; £250 a year, inclusive, from January, 1941, to June, 1941; £500 a year, inclusive, from July, 1941, to April, 1942; £250 a year, inclusive, from May, 1942, to July, 1942; and £500 a year, inclusive, from July, 1942, to February, 1943, as member of the Military Service Registration Board and Investigation Officer (issue of service medals).

NATIONAL HOUSING

Michael P. Colivet, £1,000 a year, inclusive, Chairman National Housing Board, November, 1932; still serving.

Potato Shortage Explained

ON the motion for the adjournment in the Senate yesterday, SENATOR BAXTER referred to the Potato Control Order, and said that the fact that there was no provision whatever in the Order for farmers who wished to buy seed potatoes from one another struck him as one of such great urgency that he wanted to draw the Minister's attention to the situation.

Dr. RYAN, Minister for Agriculture, replying, said that about March they found that there was going to be a shortage. This was variously attributed to potatoes rotting in the pits, or being fed to animals. There had also been a shortage in England and Northern Ireland, though not as acute. After a great deal of consideration the Prices Control Order was made. When prices were fixed in Dublin those with potatoes thought that they should get more, and those who wanted to buy were prepared to pay more than the fixed price. Wholesalers had to obey the Control Order, but certain institutions could have obeyed it better. It then became necessary to make an Order that all potatoes must come through wholesalers, in order to ensure equitable distribution.

The question of seed potatoes was different, and he could not see anything to prevent a farmer from bringing seed potatoes to market and selling them, as such, at more than the fixed price. The Dublin merchants were selling them at 2s. 8d. a stone. It would be difficult, in view of the many varieties, to fix a price for seed potatoes.

The Senate then adjourned until 3 p.m. to-day.

Potato Supplies Now Assured

Dublin food centres, which have been without potatoes for a week, will be assured of supplies from to-day, a reporter was told. This is possible under the new Government Order regarding licensing. From to-day, the Committee of Wholesalers will receive all supplies coming from the country and will allocate potatoes on a percentage basis. The scheme has the support of the retailers. It was put into operation on the recommendation made to the Government by the wholesale merchants, with a view to curbing the activities of the "black market," where potatoes were being bought at as much as £20 a ton.

Big Creamery Combine

ON the second stage of the Creameries (Acquisition) Bill, 1943, in the Senate yesterday, Dr. RYAN, Minister for Agriculture, said that the bill was designed to complete the taking over of private creameries and financially weak co-operatives. Only about 4 p.c. of the industry was now outside the co-operative movement. The bill gave the Minister powers to compel the remaining proprietors to sell. It gave an opportunity for agreement on price or the appointment of an arbitrator to deal with unagreed cases. There would be an element of subsidy.

Senator Sir John KEANE said that the co-operative movement had been a great boon. Fifteen years had passed since the Dairy Disposals Board, which was to be a purely transitory body, was formed, and it was still there with £700,000 of Government money, on which it paid no interest, competing with creameries which had to pay interest. Such an unfair state of affairs should be brought to an end.

Dr. Ryan, replying, said that he was quite sure the Dairy Disposals Board would go on for a long time. The majority of the concerns to be taken over under the bill would go straight to co-operative societies; others would have to be held by the Board for some time. They were going to be generous with redundant employés, giving a twelfth of the yearly salary for every year's service. Most men would be re-employed.

The bill passed its second stage.

Coiste Gnotha Criticised

The complaint that the governing body of the Gaelic League (Coisto Gnotha) were not giving the language movement the best possible advice and example was made at the forty-ninth annual meeting of Ireland's oldest Gaelic League branch, the Ard Chraobh, in 39 Parnell square, Dublin, last night.

Mr. de Valera, who was re-elected President, sent a message of regret for his non-attendance.

Riobard A. Braham, Hon Secretary, in his annual report, said that early Gaelic Leaguers realised that they needed to devote attention to the language, and to it alone. "Can the same be said of the language movement to-day," he asked, "when many subsidiary issues have been allowed to mar an otherwise enthusiastic body of workers in their efforts to make the country Gaelic speaking!" He answered by stating that he believed the movement was not receiving the best advice and example from the Coiste Gnotha.

ALLIED INVASION TALKS IN U.S.A.

THE highest British naval, military and air chiefs, including Field-Marshal Sir Archibald Wavell, Commander-in-Chief in India, are in Washington with Mr. Churchill, it was disclosed yesterday.

The presence of Field-Marshal Wavell and other British fighting chiefs from the India theatre was regarded in some quarters as an indication that a joint blow at the Japanese and at Axis-occupied Europe might be discussed during the talks now taking place.

Dr. Benes, the Czech President, arrived in Washington last night.

The British party includes:—General Sir Alan Brooke, Chief of the Imperial General Staff; Admiral of the Fleet Sir Dudley Pound, Air Chief Marshal Sir Charles Portal, Chief of the Air Staff; Admiral Sir James Somerville, Commander-in-Chief, Eastern Fleet; Air Chief Marshal Sir Richard Peirse, Air Commander-in-Chief, India; Lord Leathers, Minister of War Transport; Sir Hastings Ismay, Staff Officer to the Minister of Defence;

The B.B.C. announces that Mr. Churchill will broadcast at 9 p.m. on Friday. It is understood the broadcast will be made from America.

Lord Cherwell, Paymaster-General and one of Mr. Churchill's personal assistants; Brigadier Eric Jacob, Assistant (Military) Secretary to the War Cabinet.

CHINA AS A BASE

Mr. Stephen Early, the White House Secretary, said last night that there will be constant conferences and inter-changes between the two Staffs as well as between the President and Mr. Churchill. President and Premier had a long talk on Tuesday night.

One observer said: "Roosevelt has promised that China will be used as a base for attacks upon Japan itself, and the presence of Field-Marshal Wavell and Air Chief Marshal Peirse cannot be directly concerned with a forthcoming Allied blow in Europe."

President Benes and President Roosevelt will discuss post-war plans calling for close collaboration between Russia and a Federation of European nations.

Field-Marshal Wavell spent some time in England before accompanying Mr. Churchill to America.

SOVIET HOPES

The New York Times said yesterday that Roosevelt and Churchill "will check over plans for the invasion of Europe."

An A.P. message from Moscow says: The Soviet people reacted immediately to the Churchill-Roosevelt meeting as presaging a second front.

Taoiseach's School-day Memories

Mr. de Valera retraced his primary school lessons when speaking yesterday in the Dail on the resumed debate on the Education estimates. Most of the world geography which had been of use to him, he said, he had learned in the third book at the national school. He had also had to learn a lot of the geography of Britain which had not been of much use to him. He did not have any history, and for that he had to wait till after he had left school, his first text book of Irish history being Sullivan's. He had had a very useful little text book on agriculture—Baldwin's Agriculture—from which he had learned such things as the difference between Italian and perennial rye grass, which was of interest, as well as things of not so much interest about the Norfolk rotation of crops and kitchen gardening. There had been something in it also about flax, but until this day he believed he had never seen a field of flax.

THE DEBATE

Discussion on the Education estimate, however, was chiefly on the question of the teaching of Irish. Professor O'Sullivan asked the Minister once more to set up a body to investigate what progress had been made in the revival of Irish and what were the methods best suited to secure its progress.

Mr. J. M. DILLON said he believed that children leaving their primary schools at present were not as well able to write or do simple sums as they were fifteen or sixteen years ago. He believed that the result of this attempt to use Irish as the medium of instruction in a very large number of schools had not been interpreted as the Minister would wish them to believe it had been interpreted.

LEAVING AGE

Mr. DE VALERA, who had not concluded his speech when the House adjourned, said that, even in his own day, when there was no question of Irish interfering with the work of the school, there were plenty of people leaving school not able to write a simple letter. He believed that those who attacked the system of teaching through Irish did not know what was being done in the schools.

Mr. DILLON—Does that stricture apply to the teachers' report?

Mr. DE VALERA said that he would not accept the teachers' report as an enquiry, but he would welcome an enquiry if it were only to lay these ghosts which were being raised so often. He thought they were losing a great deal of the value of the money spent on education, because the children did not have an extra year or two beyond the age of 14 to consolidate what they had learned. If they could afford to bring the leaving age up to 15 or 16 it would be money well spent.

Doctors Call for Petrol

The petrol shortage is making it impossible for doctors to tend their patients. Grave dissatisfaction exists among the profession.* If petrol is not made available soon, a reporter was told yesterday, medical men must perforce cut out their voluntary work. Actually, some surgeons have decided to take this action. Bicycles, it was explained, are virtually useless. Doctors and anæsthetists could not be expected to carry heavy equipment on bicycles. Apart from this aspect of the problem, it would be physically impossible to tend all their patients, and emergency cases on bicycles. Also it was explained that producer gas plants would be virtually useless to the doctor and surgeon, as these plants are suitable only for short journeys. When detained for long periods in hospitals or on serious cases, the fires would be out when they returned to their cars.

"It has done me immense good"

TESTIMONY April 18, 1941

Who introduced the custom of drinking Coffee after Theatre performances?

In 1689 one, Francois Procope, opened a Coffee House in Paris opposite the famous Comedie Francaise Theatre. It became the custom to drink Coffee there after performances and it was soon known as a gathering place of French Authors and Actors, among them Voltaire. Napoleon while an Artillery Officer was also a patron.

After a tiring day I always drink PATTISON'S Coffee. It's refreshing and delicious.

Makes Baby HAPPY and Mother too!

Don't let him cry when "WIND-PAIN" can be relieved so easily. Generations of Nurses and Mothers have turned tears to smiles with a teaspoonful of Woodward's celebrated "Gripe Water." It breaks the "wind" and helps baby to bring it up quite easily. No lifting from his warm cot; no chilling; no back-patting to wake him fully from his sleep!

"Gripe Water" makes baby comfortable and happy. He smiles, sleeps soundly and puts on weight. Keep a bottle always handy

Rovers' Good Chance of Soccer Honours

ON next Saturday the North v. South tournament enters on its second round with the matches between Shelbourne and Belfast Celtic, at Dalymount Park, and Distillery and Dundalk, at Belfast. On Monday, Bohemians play Derry City, at Dalymount, and Shamrock Rovers go to Belfast on the same day to meet Cliftonville. The other games in the second round are:—May 18th, Belfast Celtic v. Shelbourne, at Belfast; May 19th, Dundalk v. Distillery, at Dalymount Park; May 22nd, Shamrock Rovers v. Cliftonville, at Dalymount Park; Derry City v. Bohemians, at Belfast. The clubs which went out in the first round were Linfield, Glentoran, St. James's Gate and Cork United, and the two amateur clubs, Cliftonville and Bohemians survived as the best losers.

The outstanding performance of the first round was the decisive manner in which Shamrock Rovers accounted for Linfield. At Dalymount Park there was only a goal between them (3-2), and there would not have been many who would have backed the Rovers to pull through at Belfast. In the heaviest scoring game of the round, however, the Dublin team came out winners by 7-4, running up four goals against the Blues' couple. On that form alone it would seem that Rovers have a really good chance of taking the honours.

All through the season they were handicapped by a pronounced weakness forward, but in the matches with Linfield the attack revealed a surprising improvement, with Eglinton, the left winger, the star performer. The Milltown team are fortunate in having Cliftonville as their opponents in the second round, as the amateurs, at Dalymount Park at all events, showed themselves to be a rather weak side.

Shelbourne, like Rovers, have been playing much better than they played in the League of Ireland and in other local competitions, but if they are to overcome Celtic they will have to lay solid the foundations of victory at Dalymount Park on Saturday. With the brothers O'Flanagan in the forward line, Bohemians should account for Derry City. In their match with Cliftonville at Dalymount Park, Dundalk gave a sorry exhibition, after being led 2-1 at Belfast. To get the better of Distillery they will have to adopt different methods in attack and defence. In Dalymount Park the entire team lacked virility; there was too much pattern weaving.

In the event of two teams being level on goals the result is decided on the number of corner kicks registered in the two matches. Would a lot more interest not be given to the tournament by changing that by giving the flag kicks a different value? At Belfast, Cliftonville had as many as ten corners. If five corners counted as a goal they would have beaten Dundalk in that match by four goals to a goal and four corners. It is worth considering.

Kerry Murder Charge

Yesterday was the thirteenth day, before Mr. Justice Overend and a jury in the Central Criminal Court, Dublin, of the trial of Timothy Flynn (60), of Kilbonane, Beaufort, Killarney, who is charged with the murder of his wife, Hannah, on the morning of November 16 last. He pleads not guilty.

Supt. Bartholomew Harte, Killarney, gave evidence that when he visited the accused man's home on November 17 Flynn said to him: "Oh, Mr. Harte, isn't it awful! We were so happy. We had everything we wanted in this life. We had 30 tons of apples, 100 tons of potatoes, oats, and everything. Look at the fine place we have here. Now it is all broken up when she is gone." Asked how the tragedy had occurred, Flynn walked over to the well and said: "She must have been trying to pull up the turkey, had it up, and was trying to reach for it when she overbalanced and fell in the goose creature."

When he re-visited Flynn's on November 19, and remarked to him: "There have been lots of rumours." Flynn replied: "Glory be to God, aren't the people awful. I never did a wrong thing in my life. I attended the mission in Killarney every night. Sergeant Buckley can tell you, and Sergeant Burns, who knows me longer than you, can tell you that I am a Peace Commissioner, and that in my life I never did any harm." At a later stage Flynn said: "Thank God that you are going to clear up the matter. You are doing me a good turn, and I know it." When referring to his wife's brother, Patrick Joy, Flynn said to him: "He is jealous of me because all the money was left here. There was another brother, John Joy, died here in this house 8 or 10 years ago, and he left me £2,000. He left this money for my children, and the Joys are mad since because I got all this money. Pat Joy now thinks, when his sister is gone, that I will reap all the reward, and that is what is vexing him." And still later Flynn remarked to him: "Pat Joy would not speak to me for years, but I know he is in financial difficulties through his own bad conduct, and I believe he would not stop at anything to do me harm, or set a trap for me." Referring to relations between himself and his wife, Flynn said: "My wife used to be a little nervy at times, but I did not ever say anything about it for the sake of the children. There was insanity in her family. She was however, a good little woman, the maker of my home, and the best cook in the County of Kerry. For twenty years we have lived like ordinary farmers. The best pair in the world will have a word now and again. It is false to say that she ever went with another man or that I ever went with another woman." Flynn added that on the night preceding his wife's death his workman Leen, had heard strange footsteps outside the house. Asked to explain what appeared to be bloodstains in the back kitchen, Flynn said that they must have been caused by fresh meat being put into the safe or by fowl being hung up. Bloodstains on his clothing must have come from his wife's corpse as he assisted to carry it after its recovery from the well. Blood on his dungarees had come from rabbits.

Superintendent Harte said that when he arrested Flynn on November 28 and charged him with his wife's murder, "he kept staring me straight in the face and never replied." No blood-stained weapon was ever found.

John O'Connor, Flynn's nephew, said that he had been his uncle by into tempers for no apparent reason, and he heard him complain of his wife drinking and keeping company with other men.

The further hearing was adjourned until to-day, when it is understood the case for the defence will be opened.

Mr. J. McCarthy, K.C., Mr. R. McLoughlin, K.C., and Mr. T. Donovan (instructed by the Chief State Solicitor) prosecuted. Mr. C. Casey, K.C., and Mr. T. K. Liston (instructed by Mr. C. Healy, solicitor, Killarney) appeared for Flynn.

Halibut Liver Oil in Capsule form

Halibut Liver Oil is liberally prescribed by the Medical profession because of its essential Vitamin A and Vitamin D content. You need these Vitamins to protect you, to build up your body's resources, to guard against "'flu" and infectious diseases.

Medical science has concentrated protective Vitamin A and sunshine Vitamin D in Halicaps Halibut Liver Oil Capsules. ONE capsule is equal in Vitamin A content to four and a half teaspoons' full of Cod Liver Oil, and how much easier Halicaps are to take!

Children, too, thrive on Halicaps. They build strong teeth, bone and muscle, and are a sure protection against colds and infection.

Get a box of Halicaps from your chemist. Two strengths: Standard 3/3 per box; Extra Strong 4/6. Insist on Halicaps. Refuse substitutes.
